The Conference will take place during Metef Exhibition
11-13 JUNE 2014 - Veronafiere

Thanks to its characteristics aluminum is the ideal partner for the production of packaging because it is lightweight, malleable, resistant to impact and corrosion and is able to provide a barrier that protects from light, air, humidity, and bacteria. And it is 100% recyclable to infinitely.

Prevention, aimed at the reduction and minimization of environmental impacts of processes and products, is of special importance in the industrial system of aluminum packaging, with its own characteristics also in all other sectors and areas of application. One of the main characteristics of the material is in fact its infinite recyclability and the huge energy savings that comes with it. The life cycle of aluminum is a closed loop, endless and, thanks to a steady growth over the years of separate collection, recovery and recycling in our country and in the rest of Europe, the availability of new raw material from scrap continues to substitute the mineral.

The virtuous cycle of uses of light metal packaging, systems and schemes of national recovery born on the basis of European directives in the environmental field, which is dedicated to this event, will be illustrated in essential points from exceptional speakers.
